Celebrities including Taye Diggs (far right) and the cast of Selling Sunset (2nd from left – Mary Bonnet and husband Romain Bonnet), joined the festivities to honor the iconic Sharon Stone alongside a group of empowering women who are championing change in media and cinema.

We Do It Together, the groundbreaking 501(c)(3) nonprofit film production company founded in 2015 by international filmmaker Chiara Tilesi, has dedicated the past decade to advocating for women’s storytelling and transforming representation in film. The organization has made an indelible mark globally collaborating with the United Nations, NASDAQ, World Economic Forum and governments across the world, producing powerful films, educational programs, and campaigns that amplify women’s voices. Its feature film Tell It Like a Woman was Oscar®-nominated in 2023 and screened at the UN General Assembly, underscoring its international impact.

“For the last 10 years, We Do It Together has worked to change the cultural roots of gender inequality through film, education, and social impact campaigns. Yet violence and disparity continue to rise worldwide. I am grateful that during the gala we will honor extraordinary women who inspire change. Our commitment is stronger than ever,” said founder Chiara Tilesi.

Renowned Italian artist Camilla Ancilotto designed the powerful and beautiful Victoria Award for We Do It Together that was presented to the honorees. Inspired by the ancient Winged Victory of Vani (2nd–1st century BC), the bronze statuette symbolizes light and rebirth, featuring restored gold-plated wings while preserving the aged bronze as a tribute to its origins. Each piece was crafted by Poignée, the esteemed Italian workshop known for creating the papal coats of arms for Popes Benedict XVI, Francis, and Leo.

The evening also included the U.S. premieres of the internationally acclaimed I AM campaign, featuring, among others, Helen Mirren, Marisa Tomei, and Catherine Hardwicke. They join more than 50 influential women in art, culture, and cinema worldwide in celebrating identity, resilience, and empowerment through self-portrait videos paired with personal declarations beginning with "I AM."

Guests were then free to tour the museum before mingling and dining at the seated dinner

Mr. Brainwash Art Museum

The Mr. Brainwash Art Museum, created by world-renowned street artist and filmmaker Thierry Guetta (Mr. Brainwash), was the perfect setting for the gala. Known for its bold fusion of pop culture, graffiti, and contemporary art, the museum provides a space where art, imagination, and wonder converge—a fitting backdrop to celebrate a decade of women's empowerment. In celebration of this milestone, Mr. Brainwash donated an important art piece to We Do It Together to be auctioned. The piece, titled "Pop Wall," is a silkscreen and mixed media on canvas with splashed frame.

About We Do It Together

Founded in 2015 by the international filmmaker Chiara Tilesi, We Do It Together is a non-profit organization created to finance and produce films, documentaries, TV and other forms of media uniquely dedicated to the empowerment of women. With a mission to create content that provides women in entertainment a slate to be creatively recognized, We Do It Together strives to change perceptions of female stereotypes within a male-dominated industry. The latest Oscar-nominated movie produced, Tell It Like a Woman, featuring Jennifer Hudson, Eva Longoria, Cara Delevingne, Marcia Gay Harden, and others, has garnered significant recognition. We Do It Together also had the honor of opening the month dedicated to women at the United Nations General Assembly. We Do It Together is at the forefront of creating a new culture where women can thrive.

The We Do It Together Board of Directors is comprised of: Founder Chiara Tilesi (Producer Tell It Like a Woman), Debora Guetta, Alejandra Jackson and Keri Selig (Producer of The Six Triple Eight). To learn more, visit www.wedoittogether.org (<http://www.wedoittogether.org/>)
